2013 – Present	Wealthcare Capital Management LLC Chief Executive Officer; Member of the Board of Directors
2008 – 2013	Independent Consultant
1995-2008	Lockwood Family of Companies and their Holding Company, LFG, Inc. Chief Executive Officer

Leonard Reinhart joined Wealthcare in 2013 in order to accelerate and expand the Company's leadership of the goals-based wealth management movement. With 30 years of experience in the investment industry, Mr. Reinhart is a pioneer in the investment management business with a history of cultivating high-growth, platform-based businesses.

He began his investment career as an analyst with EF Hutton and its successor companies, eventually becoming the President and CEO of the Consulting Group where he was responsible for developing over $70 Billion in assets. He created the groundbreaking Select Program which brought institutional level managers to retail investors at minimums the high net retail investor could meet. He founded and developed TRAK, the first wrap fee mutual fund in the industry. In 1995, he left Smith Barney to found Lockwood which became the model for Third Party Asset Management Programs (TAMPs). In 2003, he sold Lockwood to the bank of New York when Lockwood has grown from scratch $10 Billion in assets. Since retiring in 2008 he has been involved in various technology and business related startups in the investment management area. In 2013, he organized a purchase of Wealthcare Capital Management where he became the Chairman of the Board.

He recognized the need and opportunity to develop a superior business model that would enable investment advisors to provide a superior client experience; the hallmarks of which are cost efficiency, transparency, goals-based investing and a client-centric platform. He has been lending his vast experience to help drive the development of a refined goals-driven investment strategy and helped assemble the talent from both existing Wealthcare team members and new executives to compliment other resources and launch Wealthcare 2.0.

CERTIFIED FINANCIAL PLANNERTM (CFP[®])

The CERTIFIED FINANCIAL PLANNERTM, CFP[®] and federally registered CFP (with flame design) marks (collectively, the "CFP[®] marks") are professional certification marks granted in the United States by Certified Financial Planner Board of Standards, Inc. ("CFP Board"). The CFP[®] certification is a voluntary certification; no federal or state law or regulation requires financial planners to hold CFP[®] certification. To attain the right to use the CFP[®] marks, an individual must satisfactorily fulfill the following requirements: (i) complete an advanced college-level course of study addressing the financial planning subject areas that CFP Board's studies have determined as necessary for the competent and professional delivery of financial planning services; (ii) attain a Bachelor's Degree from a regionally accredited United States college or university (iii) pass the comprehensive CFP® Certification Examination which is administered in 10 hours over a two-day period; (iv) complete at least three years of full-time financial planning-related experience (or the equivalent, measured as 2,000 hours per year); and (v) agree to be bound by CFP Board's Standards of Professional Conduct, a set of documents outlining the ethical and practice standards for CFP® professionals.

Individuals who become certified must complete the following ongoing education and ethics requirements in order to maintain the right to continue to use the CFP® marks: (i) complete 30 hours of continuing education hours every two years, including two hours on the Code of Ethics and other parts of the Standards of Professional Conduct, to maintain competence and keep up with developments in the financial planning field; and (ii) renew an agreement to be bound by the Standards of Professional Conduct. The Standards prominently require that CFP® professionals provide financial planning services at a fiduciary standard of care. This means CFP® professionals must provide financial planning services in the best interests of their clients.

Qualified Plan Financial Consultant (QPFC)

QPFC is the professional credential for financial professionals who sell, advise, market or support qualified retirement plans. The QPFC program is overseen by the American Society of Pension Professionals & Actuaries (ASPPA). The QPFC program provides an understanding of general retirement planning concepts, terminology, distinctive features of qualified plans and the role of retirement plan professionals. QPFC is not an entry-level credential. A candidate will be expected to demonstrate a general proficiency of plan administration, compliance, investment, fiduciary, and ethics issues. In addition to passing a series of four examinations, a candidate must have a Series 6, 7, or 65 through FINRA as well as two letters of reference demonstrating at least two to three years of retirement plan related experience.

Chartered Financial Analyst® (CFA®)

The Chartered Financial Analyst (CFA) charter is a globally respected, graduate-level investment credential established in 1962 and awarded by CFA Institute — the largest global association of investment professionals. To earn the CFA charter, candidates must: 1) pass three sequential, six-hour examinations; 2) have at least four years of qualified professional investment experience; 3) join CFA Institute as members; and 4) commit to abide by, and annually reaffirm, their adherence to the CFA Institute Code of Ethics and Standards of Professional Conduct.

The CFA Institute Code of Ethics and Standards of Professional Conduct, enforced through an active professional conduct program, require CFA charterholders to:

- Place their clients' interests ahead of their own
- Maintain independence and objectivity
- Act with integrity
- Maintain and improve their professional competence
- Disclose conflicts of interest and legal matters

Certified Investment Management Consultant™ (CIMC®)

The Investment Management Consultants Association (IMCA) grants the professional designation Certified Investment Management Consultant™ (CIMC®). As of December 2003, new CIMC certifications are no longer granted.

When the designation was issued, its content focused on investment consulting. Current CIMC designees can maintain the designation through IMCA. CIMC designees are required to adhere to IMCA's Code of Professional Responsibility, Standards of Practice, and Rules and Guidelines for Use of the Marks.

CIMC designees must report 40 hours of continuing education credits, including two ethics hours, every two years to maintain the designation.

Certified Public Accountant (CPA)

Certified Public Accountants ("CPAs") are licensed and regulated by their state boards of accountancy. While state laws and regulations vary, the education, experience and testing requirements for licensure as a CPA generally includes: (i) a minimum college education (typically 150 credit hours with at least a baccalaureate degree and a concentration in accounting); (ii) a minimum experience level (most states require at least one year of experience providing services that involve the use of accounting, attest, compilation, management advisory, financial advisory, tax or consulting skills, all of which must be achieved under the supervision of or verification by a CPA); and (iii) successful passage of the Uniform CPA Examination.

In order to maintain a CPA license, states generally require the completion of 40 hours of continuing professional education (CPE) each year (or 80 hours over a two-year period or 120 hours over a three-year period). Additionally, all American Institute of Certified Public Accountants (AICPA) members are required to follow a rigorous Code of Professional Conduct which requires that they act with integrity, objectivity, due care, competence, fully disclose any conflicts of interest (and obtain client consent if a conflict exists), maintain client confidentiality, disclose to the client any commission or referral fees, and serve the public interest when providing financial services. The vast majority of state boards of accountancy have adopted the AICPA's Code of Professional Conduct within their state accountancy laws or have created their own.

Chartered Financial Consultant® (ChFC®)

The ChFC® designation has been a mark of excellence for almost thirty years and currently requires nine college-level courses, the most of any financial planning credential. Average study time to earn the ChFC® exceeds 450 hours. Required courses cover extensive education and application training in financial planning, income taxation, investments, and estate and retirement planning. Additional electives are chosen from such topics as macroeconomics, financial decisions for retirement, and executive compensation. ChFC® designees must meet experience requirements and adhere to continuing education and ethical standards. The credential is awarded by The American College, a non-profit educator with an 84-year heritage and the highest level of academic accreditation.

Chartered Retirement Planning CounselorSM (CRPC®)

Individuals who hold the CRPC® designation have completed a course of study encompassing pre-and post-retirement needs, asset management, estate planning and the entire retirement planning process using models and techniques from real client situations. Additionally, individuals must pass an end-of-course examination that tests their ability to synthesize complex concepts and apply theoretical concepts to real-life situations. All designees have agreed to adhere to Standards of Professional Conduct and are subject to a disciplinary process. Designees renew their designation every two-years by completing 16 hours of continuing education, reaffirming adherence to the Standards of Professional Conduct and complying with self-disclosure requirements.

Chartered Retirement Plan SpecialistSM (CRPS®)

Individuals who hold the CRPS® designation have completed a course of study encompassing design, installation, maintenance and administration of retirement plans. Additionally, individuals must pass an end-of-course examination that tests their ability to synthesize complex concepts and apply theoretical concepts to real-life situations. All designees have agreed to adhere to Standards of Professional Conduct and are subject to a disciplinary process. Designees renew their designation every two-years by completing 16 hours of continuing education, reaffirming adherence to the Standards of Professional Conduct and complying with self-disclosure requirements.

Retirement Plan Associate (RPA)

The Retirement Plans Associate (RPA) designation is granted by the International Foundation of Employee Benefit Plans (the "International Foundation") and the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania. The International Foundation provides education, information and research services for individuals and organizations that work with employee benefits, compensation and financial literacy in the United States and Canada.

For an individual to receive the RPA designation, the individual must complete a series of self-study or classroom completion of three courses that are part of the CEBS curriculum and successfully pass a computer-based exam for each course. There are no continuing education requirements for the designation.
